

Kratke ali važne vijesti

Autor Slobodan Danko Bosanac
Petak, 06 Ožujak 2009

News round-up, 6 March 2009

See what news sites and blogs have been saying about IYA2009.

<http://www.astronomy2009.org/news/updates/173/>

IYA2009-themed Physics World available for free

The special March issue of Physics World can be downloaded for a short amount of time. It includes features on giant telescopes, Earth-like planets, and interviews with leading astronomers.

<http://physicsworld.com/cws/download/si2009>

New The World at Night newsletter

Keep up-to-date with this project.

<http://www.astronomy2009.org/news/updates/171/>

The World at Night on MSNBC.com

Beautiful images from the IYA2009 project have been featured on MSNBC.com.

<http://www.msnbc.msn.com/id/29470549/>

What do children think of the Universe?

The Universe Awareness project wishes to make this an opportunity to share children's perceptions of the sky. Your help is needed to interview children aged between 4 and 10.

http://www.unawe.org/site/index.php?option=com_content&view=article&id=412:sharing-childrens-thoughts-about-the-universe&catid=218:calls-for-paricipation&Itemid=173

100HA: Hubble has a winner!

The public has voted on where they want to aim their favourite space observatory, the Hubble Space Telescope. And the winner is -- drum roll, please -- a pair of close-knit galaxies that look like they are shaking hands -- or rather spiral arms.

<http://youdecide.hubblesite.org/>